The Women's Health Team is volunteer organisation consisting of midwives and gynaecologists providing refugee women in Hamburg with medical care since Summer 2015.

Initially, we were based in first-contact facilities. We are now running our subsequent project, "WHT-Mobil", in co-operation with the Johanniter. This project consists of an ambulant medical practice which will, from February onwards, enlarge our operative range. An ambulance provided by the Johanniter has been converted for this purpose.

Our practice welcomes any woman, whether homeless or refugee, who does not have the opportunity to visit a practicing gynaecologist or midwife.

Our aim is to provide direct and uncomplicated help on site. In addition to this, we seek to facilitate the incorporation of our service into the existing healthcare system.

At this time, consultations are conducted in the presence of a midwife and a gynaecologist. More information about our project can be found on our websites: www.wht-hh.org
